Module 1 – Lesson 2 My Hobbies

A Authentic Text (pg. 10)

Hi, Mum and Dad.

How have you been doing? Sorry I haven't written for a few days. I've been decorating my dorm, exploring the campus, and getting to know my roommate. Lucia is really cool – she's into photography. She goes camping a lot in the mountains, where she takes photos of the scenery and wildlife. She also paints. I've seen some of her pictures, and they're beautiful!

We've made plans to go to her favourite campsite this Saturday. Two of her friends are coming, too. I told her that I've never gone camping before, so she'll have to teach me everything. In exchange, I'm going to teach her about computers. Except for cameras, she knows nothing about electronics! I'm going to help her set up a blog so she can upload her nature photos and other artwork.

This afternoon, Lucia and I are going shopping for some new camping equipment. I'll tell you all about the trip on Monday.

Love,
Christine

Module 2 – Lesson 2 A day to Remember

My Earliest Memory

My earliest memory from childhood is of my first day of school. I was 5 years old, and I remember it well because it was such an emotional day.

I had not been looking forward to starting kindergarten. My parents had told me not to worry, and that it was going to be fun. “You‘ll meet new kids and learn a lot”, they‘d said. I wasn‘t convinced. School sounded hard and scary, and I preferred playing outside with my friends.

That morning, I put on my favourite jeans and T-shirt, which my mum had washed and ironed the night before. My dad served me my favourite cereal for breakfast, too. Nevertheless, I felt miserable. Mum walked me to school. By the time we got there, I had started crying. (There‘s a photo of that moment, and it makes me laugh to this day.) As we said goodbye, my mum tried to encourage me. “Be brave,” she said. “You can do it.”

Of course, my mum was right. My best friend Lena was in my class, and we sat together. Lena and I made some new friends, too. Our teacher taught us games and made funny jokes. At the end of the day, I actually felt cheerful. I realised I‘d been enjoying myself!

When it was time to go home, my mum met me outside the school. I asked her, —I can come back here tomorrow, can‘t I?

1. I live in a tropical country. We have dangerous monsoons that blow through every summer. Last summer, a typhoon blew down a big billboard near my home.
2. I believe that climate change is natural. I learned that when the dinosaurs were alive, the Earth was much warmer. I think we just need to learn to live with the changing climate.
3. I don't think governments should be put in charge of trying to stop climate change. I think they have the potential to just mess things up even more.
4. I sometimes forget to turn the lights off. I know this causes more electricity to be generated, and that costs everyone money. I'll make an effort to turn the lights off more often.

Module 3 – Lesson 2 Heat Wave

HOT WEEKEND EXPECTED
This summer will be the hottest on record. Dangerously high temperatures are expected this weekend. The city is advising residents to stay indoors except in the early morning or the evening. If you must be outside during the day, rest often and drink lots of water. Extreme heat is especially dangerous for older people. Local volunteers are going to be checking on older residents.

City officials are also worried about power cuts this weekend. Businesses and residents will be running their air. conditioners more than usual. It is a good idea to buy a week's supply of water and cans of food before Friday. If your power fails and your home is too hot, please come to one of the "cooling centres" around the city. Click here for a list of locations.

The current drought has also reduced the city's water supply and increased the risk of wildfires. Because of the water shortage, officials are asking people not to water their grass or gardens. If you break the hosepipe ban, you will receive a fine. Please follow these instructions and stay safe during the heat wave.
