A. Summary

1. Book Summary

Bellerophon and Pegasus is a Greek legend about a hero and his flying horse.

Bellerophon is handsome and brave. He rides a white horse named Pegasus. Pegasus can fly. King Proteus's wife, the queen, is in love with Bellerophon, but he does not love her. This makes her angry, so she asks her husband to kill Bellerophon.

King Proteus likes Bellerophon. He does not want to kill Bellerophon himself. He writes a note to the queen's father, King Lobates, asking him to kill Bellerophon. Bellerophon takes the note to King Lobates.

King Lobates likes Bellerophon. When he reads the note, he is sad. He does not want to kill Bellerophon. There is a bad animal named Chimera. King Lobates tells Bellerophon to kill it. He thinks that Chimera will kill Bellerophon instead.

Bellerophon and Pegasus fly above the Chimera. Bellerophon kills Chimera with one arrow. King Lobates is very happy. He decides not to kill Bellerophon.

Bellerophon marries King Lobates's youngest daughter, Philonoe. They are happy for many years.

One day, Bellerophon decides to visit the gods. He is not a god, so it makes Zeus very angry. Zeus sends a fly to bite Pegasus. Bellerophon falls off Pegasus, and he never sees his horse again.

B. Background and Themes

★ Heroes: People who are brave are often called heroes. They do things that other people are too scared to do. Their bravery usually helps people and saves lives. Bellerophon is a hero. He is not afraid to fight Chimera. He kills the animal that has killed many people.

★ Loyalty: Loyalty is when you are faithful to someone. Others may try to persuade you to turn against the person you are loyal to, but you should always choose to be loyal. The queen loves Bellerophon, but Bellerophon ignores her love. He knows she is married and that it would be wrong for him to love her in return. He is loyal to King Proteus.

★ Trust: Trusting others is often hard to do because you may not know their true feelings about you. You do not know if they will do something to hurt you. Bellerophon trusts King Proteus and King Lobates. He does not know that they have been asked to kill him. If he did not trust them, he would have read the note that King Proteus wrote to King Lobates. Also, King Proteus trusted Bellerophon to deliver the note without reading it.

★ Pride: It is good to be proud of things that you can do, but too much pride will lead to trouble. Bellerophon becomes arrogant and thinks he can go anywhere he wants. He forgets that he is just a man, not a god. He thinks he is so great that no one can stop him. However, the gods are greater than he is. Zeus does not like Bellerophon's arrogance, so he punishes him by making him lose Pegasus.
