Subject: A Challenge

Hi Sofia,

Remember last week we were talking about how tired and unhealthy we both felt? Well, I have decided to do something about it! I have been reading about superfoods and exercise on the Internet. I want to challenge you to exercise for 30 minutes a day and to drink one superfood smoothie every day for one month. At the end of the month, we must meet to see if we feel healthier and more energetic.

Here is the recipe for a superfood smoothie:

2 kale leaves
1 cup of spinach
1 cup of blueberries
1 cup of coconut milk
1 tablespoon of chia seeds
½ of an avocado

Just blend them together and drink. It actually tastes pretty good. Do you accept my challenge?

Ingrid

Hi Ingrid,

Yes, I accept your challenge. I have already bought all the ingredients for the smoothie, and you're right: it is pretty good. I also read some articles about the superfoods in the smoothie. They all sound so good. I think I feel healthier already. Also, I walked in the park for 30 minutes this morning. Does that count as exercise?

See you in a month!

Sofia

Exciting End in Chicago

CHICAGO, Ill. — Fans in attendance at last night's Blackhawks-Rangers hockey game witnessed a super finish. With the Blackhawks down by a goal and just one minute left, team captain Jonathan Toews scored to tie up the contest. Then, just fifteen seconds later, speedy winger Patrick Kane seemed to score the go-ahead goal. The referee, however, said the shot had hit the crossbar and bounced out of the net into the glove of Ranger's goalie, Henrik Lundqvist. Luckily, the instant replay showed that the puck had indeed crossed the goal line. Kane's goal counted, and the Hawks went on to win.
